Conversations with My Daughter Did you know that we were monkeys, dad?

October, 2009
Vienna, VA

T: Did you know that we were monkeys, dad?

Dad: You were a monkey, perhaps!

T: Laughs...

T: I'm serious!

Dad: I'm serious too! I was never a monkey!

T: No, no, dad...Man used to be a monkey.

Dad: When was that?

T: A long time ago.

Dad: What happened, then?

T: We changed to human.

Dad: You mean if I keep a monkey for a long time it would turn to human?

T: I don't know, dad! I don't think so!

Dad: Good answer!

T: what is a good answer?

Dad: You don't know – that's a great answer! You're the smartest monkey I know and the prettiest I must say!

T: Laughs...

T: So, what do we do about this?

Dad: Someday soon we'll do some research and find out more about this.

T: When, daddy? Can we start now?

Dad: Sure... Here is what I would like you to do. Start by researching Human Evolution. If you're religious you'd believe we are from Adam & Eve...

T: interrupts... we know that is not true...

Dad: Yes! In which case we will have an easier time completing our research.
